Pritika Maharaj

Ranger and Everest Global Program Manager

Pritika Maharaj is the global program manager for Ranger and Everest.

Based in Geelong, Victoria, Maharaj joined Ford in 1992 and has held a variety of key engineering and management roles.

She has extensive experience across the Ford Motor Company, including as Ranger and Everest global quality manager and Asia-Pacific and Africa powertrain engineering manager, working on Ranger, Falcon, Territory, and China vehicle programs. She has also worked in Ford Australia's customer service division as a powertrain representative.

Before becoming global program manager for Ranger and Everest, Maharaj was the Ranger global lead plant vehicle team manager (VTM) at the Ford Thailand Manufacturing plant. As VTM she was focused on ensuring Ranger and Everest quality during production.

Maharaj's love of automotive began while she was still at secondary school, working part-time in an automotive garage servicing vehicles and assisting mechanics with repairs.

She has a bachelor of engineering (honors) degree from the Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology.

Maharaj loves to travel with her family and is living the Ranger life to the fullest. She uses her Ranger for off-roading, towing the family caravan for summer holidays, and hauling bikes and wood, as well as their family dog, a Rhodesian Ridgeback.
